The Fund receives research input from Numis Securities team of over 30 investment analysts. These analysts are sector specialists with typically many years of experience, close contacts with individual companies and very detailed knowledge of their industries.

The output received consists of the analysts' highest conviction, medium term ideas. These ideas are then screened using a quantitative process in order to optimise portfolio construction in terms of risk and stock and sector allocation. *Hence we seek to capture the analysts best ideas, Alpha, and overlay this with consistent controls to provide smarter beta.
